SPEECHES BY GEO. H. PENDLETON, EMIL RUTHE, AND H. L. PALMER

Conclude to Report on Mr. Pendleton's Speech.

The speech of Mr. Pendleton which we published in the Journal this morning is perhaps the ablest speech that he delivered in the last session. It is certainly a strong and splendid effort. It will raise up new friends for me and send out old ones.

For serious bread riots are up at Exeter and Amherst, England, on Monday and Tuesday last. Few persons really know what a bread riot is. It is easy to understand that angry in a may-way as their symbol have been outraged and in a sense of law or excuse at least, to lay a curse upon the objects of their resentment. But such mobs as are gathering in this country of peace and plenty necessarily find their reason when properly explained. The mob here is a very different affair. Men desire to despair are not open to annoyment. Men who are starving, who see their wives and children famishing, freezing, perhaps dying, are out as dangerous to approach as wild beasts. It is that which occasions the terror with which a mob here observes could not but notice the air of malignant and lawless and intense wickedness which the mob was.

Of course, the simple instinct of self-preservation leads the mob to attempt to oppose every such riot at an incursion with the strongest arm of the law. In this case both military and regular police have been ordered out, and the poor devils who have worked at war on prices until they had nothing left to eat, must go home or prison—which latter is doubtless the more merciful alternative.

The great surplus of labor in England has been remunerated at the starvation point. If one manufacturer should pay an approach to equitable prices his competitors would undersell and ruin him.

So long as there are such an immense number of men, women, and children, who must work or starve, the price will not be increased. Except for the heavy emigration to Australia, the United States, and elsewhere, the King would periodically be more than indemnified by such terrible famines as are chronic in India.
England cannot raise food sufficient for her population, and it was the repetition of bread riots which ultimately forced the repeal of the corn laws upon the Parliament, and inaugurated free-trade in breadstuffs.

Unquestionably the surging of this tempest has occasioned the present crisis.
Large numbers of laborers have been discharged during the past summer because the manufacturers have been compelled to take in salt. The wages of those remaining in employ must support those who are out. Those who would like to pay no longer money enough to employed as to give them a partial relief and more profitable use in American and foreign investments.

It is worthy of consideration to what extent the present high taxation in this country can be carried without eventuating the same condition. Already the poorer classes find it nearly impossible to live upon their scanty earnings. The heavy tariff upon foreign manufactures renders it difficult for the laborer to clothe himself decently. The case with which the poor man carried out his own fortunes and elevated himself into a king of the salt, a land owner, and an independent sovereign, is already matter of tradition of that of living fact. And although the vast extent of our unoccupied territory is regarded as the poor man's last, if not the only, refuge, it is becoming fast almost as far beyond the reach of the laborers of our Eastern cities as of the laborers of Exeter and Amherst. Before it is too late our legislators must look to it that throughout the shall the next generations bread riot in New York and Boston.

The fourteenth amendment, whatever Mr. Palmer's views, has nothing to do with the right to vote. He is a good man, a good citizen, and a good gentleman who comes to us from the State of Ohio, at the request of the Democratic friends in this State and I, for the purpose of addressing us upon the present issue. He is a good man, and I have no objection to what you, the Hon. Mr.
H. Pendleton, of Ohio. (Great and controlled applause.)

At the conclusion of Mr. Palmer's remarks, Mr. Pendleton rose to his feet, and in a manner which was well deserved, and continued for several minutes to be commended his speech in voice and manner, and in an intonation after Terrible Boiler Explosion at Pittsburg.

Twenty Persons Killed and Many Wounded.

Pittsburg, Nov. 8.—A fatal explosion occurred here to day. About half past eleven o'clock it was heard in the distance of the town. We were startled by the loud report of an explosion. Upon visiting the place from whence the sound came, it was learned that a portion of the works of Besse, Great & Hall had blown into atoms. "A dozen persons were killed and many wounded. It has been ascertained that the explosion occurred in the forge portion of the mill."

To add to this terrible accident the building had caught on fire, and was in flames.

The cause of the explosion will probably never be known, as the engineer and men are the only ones who could have given the order, and they were immediately killed. The loss will probably reach $100,000.

We are informed by one firm, that notwithstanding the accident they are prepared to have orders sent to them in running order in a week. The stock on hand is large and well assured, none of which is injured.

SUMMARY OF NEW YORK NEWS.

New York, Nov. 8.—There was an important meeting of merchants today. A committee was appointed to report a good wharf and pier system.

The reports of the recruits are ready here for the 5th military district and will soon be forwarded.

The failure of a large dry goods jobbing firm is reported at Pittsburg. A committee was before the grand jury today, which, it is believed, will soon present indictments against the parties present in the hands of the prosecution, and in possession of the power and strength his Majesty did, who had but to command and it obeyed.

"A word is true," answered Theodore, "but a lie will last a year."

Levi Stetson has recovered $1,000 damages from the Erie railroad company for property destroyed by fire in transit to Pittsburg.

John Eber and son, aged 28 and 26, were dangerously stabbed by unknown parties in Locust street last night.

W. H. Smith, proprietor of "Gartree and Alex. Knight" on the west of Oct. 20th and robbing him of $200.

A fire last night damaged the livery stable of W. C. Vantry and the rolling mill of Cereals, Co., on East Thirteenth street, to which he belongs.

A fire on Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, tonight, destroyed a frame house belonging to Mr. O'Casey, of this city. Loss $25,000.

The failure of a large United foreign demand for 10,000 from a leading dealer has purchased from the Government $1,000,000 of the bonds which have been contracted to supply the demand.

A letter from Secretary McCulloch to a leading dealer, received yesterday, stated that the department is not yet prepared to entertain propositions for the sale of the remaining issue of the 10,000 bonds.

WAH-MARON, Nov. 8.—The Commissioner of the Land Office is in receipt of a letter from A. W. Atwood, of London, making inquiry relative to the obtaining of a quantity of land for the settlement of 50,000 emigrants, whom he contemplated sending to the United States. The Commissioner has replied, referring to the great body of unoccupied land west of the Mississippi, and the facility for obtaining a title to the same under the provisions of the homestead and associated laws, and communicating to the applicant full instructions on the points of inquiry presented.

Hon. Thomas L. Stettinius, the well known United States Senator from Kentucky, is in Washington. His appointment has not yet been confirmed by the Senate.

Secretary Wells is still confused by his belief in the effects of a slow fever, but his physician says the prospect is that he will be soon out of the country when I should advise you to get out of it as quickly as possible.

Dr. Beecher and his wife, old friends, are on a visit to the old country, and are now together. After whirling the brook a while, they became separated, and the daughter returned home without any harm.

Her father, however, was not to be the case when fastened by his master, and it only by some effort that the animal was captured again. As the Doctor entered the house, Miss Catherine said, "Well, father, what are we to do with the country when I should advise you to get out of it as quickly as possible."

The members present except Secretary Wells, the question as to when the annual message and accompanying document should be delivered to the Senate, was the topic of discussion. It is learned that a majority of the cabinet as well as the President, have come to the conclusion that the message reports should not be sent, and the communication of the regular and the annual message.

Secretary Drake has arrived, and was present at a meeting of the Ordnance Committee.

To-day the trustees of the colored schools of the District had their annual report before the Secretary of the Interior. There are now five good school-houses for colored children in the District, accommodating 2,000 pupils.

The following table shows the total amount received during the year to be over $15,000, while the receipts were only $1,000.

The trustees complain very bitterly of the conduct of the management authorities, in withholding money received from us, and paid on property owned by colored persons, set apart by act of Congress for the education of colored children. Of this sum, this city only received $1,000, which was entirely referred to pay

There were sixty-six colored schools supported by Northern benevolent associations during the year. At an expense of 40,000. All the schools have opened this year with flattering prospects.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 8.—The Governor-General delivered a speech to Parliament yesterday. It was a speech of no interest to us. The members from Nova Scotia were sworn in yesterday.

PRINCETON, Nov. 8.—A fire broke out in the depot last night which resulted in the destruction of property worth $25,000. The cause of the fire is unknown. A light was alighted at the time, and a dwelling caught fire from the town. The insurance in the aggregate is about $100,000.

BUFFALO, Nov. 8.—A fire broke out a few miles away from this town in a house built of flour, pork, lard, & fat, from the neck of a propeller. The Coroner has examined and cared for the property, for the benefit of the underwriters and owners.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 8.—Business very dull.

As many as already arrived to attend the first opening of the Memphis Association, under the auspices of the National Turf Congress, which commences Monday.

Weather cloudy and sultry.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The pedestrian, dined here and left at 12 o'clock all right.

It is rumored that Chief Justice Bigelow, of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, will soon resign and accept the position of Attorney of the Hospital Life Insurance Company in place of Chas. G. Loring, deceased, and Judge Hoar will be appointed Chief Justice.

Salas, writing from the Debtor's Prison in London, but dating his letters at Dresden, declares an American who knows no language can better his way than an Englishman who speaks half a dozen others fluently.
